

2022 DESIGN TRENDS

By Juliette Thomas on Thursday 3rd Feb 2022

From restful blues and relaxing bedrooms to nature-inspired tones and bold maximalist prints, this year is set to be an exciting year for interiors. If you're looking to add an on-trend touch to your home then read on for all the inspiration you need with my guide to the top luxury interior design trends to take note of in 2022.

Restful Blues

Providing a fresh, light and optimistic feel to spaces, calm restful blues are on the rise with homeowners choosing to breathe new life into spaces. Whether used for the walls or even the floor tiles, soft blues are the perfect complementing colour for neutral interiors. This peaceful, pastel hue adds an airy and uplifting feel wherever it is used.

Earthen Hues

Sometimes, to find the perfect colour palette all you need to do is look at nature. Pairing naturally warming hues and rich colour palettes inspired by the natural world can really give a home a down to earth aura, whilst still being interesting and inviting.

"Natural colourways and earthy shades continue to dominate," explains Hege Lundh, Marketing Director at Lundhs Real Stone. "From deep olive and sage green painted walls paired with dark cabinetry to warmer surfaces like our Lundhs Antique natural stone, earthy colours show no sign of waning in popularity," she reveals. Teamed with natural wood furniture, brass fixtures and warm decorative rugs, homeowners and designers are increasingly favouring natural colour palettes in the home.

Very Peri

(Arada Stoves)

Described as a 'dynamic periwinkle blue hue with a vivifying violet red undertone,' Pantone's colour of the year, Very Peri is guaranteed to add an uplifting feel to interiors as the 'happiest and warmest of all the blue hues.' Whether opting for a bold wall as shown above by Arada Stoves, or a simple scattering of accessories, this vivid shade is not for the faint-hearted. For a more pared-down look combine with touches of grey.

Maximalist Prints

Promising to transform luxury interiors with characterful and evocative form, maximalist prints are set to be big this year. Following on from the trend for uplifting interiors with the likes of Very Peri, bold print will enrich the home however they are used, providing a fun and motivating feel. From wallpaper to statement lamps and even printed chairs, the home will be enriched by prints that make us happy.

Sleep Sanctuary

With the bedroom having worked harder for us than ever before, providing a place for an office, escape and rest, for 2022 it's time to return the calm and peace to the bedroom and create a soothing sanctuary to retreat to. Focus on mood lighting and soothing colour palettes with plenty of layers of comforting texture.

Shades of Sage

(Heritage Brass)

My final interior trend for 2022 is shades of green, particularly in the kitchen. A timeless hue, this elegant colour delivers a fresh and uplifting scheme. Bringing the outdoors in, this nature-inspired shade ensures the kitchen is airy yet peaceful. Seen across many traditionally styled kitchens, this striking colour brings a pop of optimism into the kitchen.

I hope I've provided you with plenty of interior décor inspiration so that you feel confident to create your very own on-trend abode for 2022.
