NEWS

I love the diversity of the interior design products that arrive on my desk – this week we have jolly lighting, black hardware and a pink bathroom

Shower company Coram UK has launched a new brand – Sealskin duka enclosures. The Sealskin brand is already well established in the European Benelux region and offers customisable shower solutions.

The minimal designs are paired with hidden open-and-close mechanisms and every enclosure is tailor made to exact specifications allowing for a variety of personalisation options. Although each enclosure is made to order, the company says the lead time for delivery is just four weeks.

At a recent product launch at Tate Modern Sealskin duka presented a room-set showcasing one of its enclosures, the setting was created in trademark pink by Russell and Jordan from 2LG. And, in case you're wondering, the Capsule Alas light in this image is the result of a collaboration between 2LG and Cameron Design House

Scallop pendant light from David Hunt

The Scallop pendant light is new from David Hunt Lighting. This hand-painted design can be ordered in any colour combination via the Custom Service as well as in the pretty palette of colours.

Scallop is typical of David Hunt Lighting's blend of traditional crafting skills with cutting edge techniques. You can see the new light at the David Hunt showroom at Design Centre, Chelsea Harbour from 14 March where it will be launched during London Design Week

Matt Black hardware from Heritage Brass

New for 2022, Heritage Brass has introduced a Matt Black cabinet hardware collection to its range of solid brass hardware and electrical accessories.

Already popular for electricals, the matt black finish has now been introduced to cabinet hardware across both traditional and modern designs. Each solid brass item is powder coated cured and baked for a consistent finish.
